

A. Issues found

The draft is broadly strong and consistent with the approved Code logic: it keeps the affiliate in a limited referrer role, prohibits advice, asset recommendations, guarantees, negotiation, closing, and payment handling, and uses redirect-to-official-information as the core behavioral rule. That matches both the approved website-ready draft and the underlying Code.

The main issues are about precision and UX, not direction. First, one warning is too soft: “Private outreach may be restricted” should be tightened, because the underlying Code prohibits private cold outreach, not merely “restricted” outreach. Second, some public wording should more consistently say “official POOOL information” rather than alternating between “official POOOL sources” and other shorter variants. Third, the onboarding checkbox stack is slightly heavy and repetitive for a product flow, even though the content itself is correct.

A smaller issue is that the homepage line “not advice. not sales.” is strong and usable, but the fuller public version should still preserve the specific boundary that the affiliate may not give personal investment advice or recommend a specific asset. That specificity exists in the Code and should remain visible in the main explanatory copy.

B. Missing or unclear points

The public layer should say a little more clearly that affiliates must direct users to official POOOL fees, risk information, and disclosures when questions become decision-relevant. That detail exists in the full Code and helps prevent the website layer from sounding too generic.

The enforcement wording is good, but the product layer should separate:

- a short public-facing conduct explanation,
- onboarding acknowledgements,
- and dashboard warnings.

Right now the draft contains all three, but it would work better with a slightly tighter “best use” version for each surface.

C. Revised Website Copy Final

Homepage short copy

Referral only. Not advice. Not sales.

POOOL affiliates may introduce POOOL, share approved materials, use their personal referral link, and direct users to official POOOL information only.

Homepage support copy

POOOL affiliates may not provide personal investment advice, recommend specific assets, promise returns or safety, negotiate, close, or handle payments. Please rely on official POOOL information, fees, risk information, and disclosures.

FAQ

What is a POOOL affiliate allowed to do?

A POOOL affiliate may introduce POOOL, share approved materials, use their personal referral link, and direct users to official POOOL information.

What is a POOOL affiliate not allowed to do?

A POOOL affiliate may not provide personal investment advice, recommend a specific asset, promise returns or safety, use private cold outreach, negotiate, close, or handle payments.

Can affiliates answer investment questions?

Affiliates may share general information, but they must not answer in a way that becomes personal advice or a recommendation. Users should be directed to official POOOL information.

Can affiliates talk about POOOL in posts, videos, or stories?

Yes, if they stay factual, use approved materials where required, and do not turn the content into advice, asset recommendations, urgency, or sales pressure.

Can affiliates use their bio, story, or profile link?

Yes, approved referral links may be used in approved placements. But bio, profile, or story routing cannot be used to avoid the affiliate rules.

What happens if an affiliate breaks the rules?

Depending on severity, POOOL may issue a warning, require correction, freeze payouts, suspend the affiliate, deny affected commission, claw back amounts, or remove the affiliate from the program.

Onboarding flow

Screen 1 — Your role as a POOOL Affiliate

You may introduce POOOL, share approved materials, use your personal referral link, and direct users to official POOOL information.

Screen 2 — What you may not do

You may not provide personal investment advice, recommend specific assets, promise returns or safety, negotiate, close, or handle payments.

Screen 3 — Use clear and factual communication

Affiliate communication must stay within general information and compliant referral activity. If a user asks for advice or a recommendation, redirect them to official POOOL information.

Screen 4 — Use approved materials only

Use approved materials and official POOOL sources. Do not create your own claims, custom pitch decks, or misleading edits.

Screen 5 — Private conversation vs. affiliate communication

Normal personal conversation is different from affiliate communication. Once you use your referral link, code, call to action, or referral redirection, the affiliate rules apply in full.

Screen 6 — Program monitoring and enforcement

Affiliate participation is monitored. Violations may lead to warnings, freezes, suspension, clawback, or removal from the program.

Checkbox text

- I have read and accept the POOOL Affiliate Code of Conduct.
- I understand that my role is limited to general information, approved materials, my personal referral link, and referral to official POOOL information only.
- I understand that I may not provide personal investment advice, recommend specific assets, promise returns, use private cold outreach, negotiate, close, or handle payments.
- I understand that violations may result in warnings, payout freezes, suspension, clawback, or removal from the program.

Tooltip text

- Affiliate role — Affiliates may refer users to official POOOL information. They may not advise or sell.
- Approved materials — Use approved materials and official POOOL sources only.
- Personal advice — Do not tell users what they should invest in or which asset is best for them.

- Referral link use — Your referral link may be used only in approved placements and compliant communication.
- Redirect rule — If a user asks for advice, recommendation, safety, or return expectations, redirect to official POOOL information.
- Profile / bio / story — Profile, bio, or story links do not remove the affiliate rules.
- Enforcement — Affiliate conduct may be reviewed, and program restrictions may apply where rules are breached.

Error / warning messages

Errors

- You must accept the Code of Conduct before continuing.
- Your affiliate onboarding is incomplete. Please review and accept the required conduct rules.

Warnings

- This type of communication may be interpreted as personal advice. Please redirect to official POOOL information.
- Do not recommend a specific asset. Use general information only.
- Use approved materials only. Custom or modified content may not be used.
- Private cold outreach is not allowed under the affiliate rules.
- Affiliates may not handle payments or user funds.
- Your activity may be reviewed under the POOOL Affiliate Program rules.
- Non-compliant conduct may affect referral qualification or payout status.

This revised version keeps the same core logic as the draft you provided, while tightening the private-outreach wording and keeping the public layer clearer and more consistent with the underlying Code.

D. Final legal-review flags only

1. Whether homepage copy should always say “personal investment advice” instead of the shorter “advice.”
2. Whether user-facing warnings should always say “private cold outreach is not allowed” instead of any softer phrasing.
3. Whether the onboarding flow should keep all four checkboxes or compress them into a shorter acceptance architecture.
4. Whether some public-facing placements should explicitly link to official risk, fee, and disclosure pages.

E. Readiness note for website, onboarding, and product implementation

This is ready for website, onboarding, dashboard, and product implementation review. The draft was already strong; the main refinements were tightening one prohibition, improving consistency of official-information wording, and making the UX layer cleaner without weakening the underlying conduct rule. It remains consistent with the approved Code and the Phase 1 baseline.
